CHAPTER XXVIII.

THE day after the battle Washington sent his nephew, Major Lewis, under protection of a flag of truce, to attend upon the wounded General Mercer, the exigency of his pursuit of the flying British and their subsequent pursuit of him having precluded him from giving to his old friend that personal attention which would have so accorded with his kindly heart and the long affection in which he had held the old Scotchman. Seymour received permission to accompany Lewis, in order to ascertain, if possible, what had become of Talbot.

The men of Mercer's command reported that they had seen the two officers dismounted and fighting bravely, after having refused to retreat. The two young officers were very melancholy as they rode along the familiar road. Lewis belonged to a Virginia regiment and had known both Mercer and Talbot well, and, in fact, all the officers of that little army were like a band of brothers, and after every battle there was a general mourning for the loss of many friends. The casualties among the officers in the sharp engagement had been unusually severe and entirely disproportionate to the total loss; the bulk of the loss had fallen upon Mercer's brigade.

They found the general in Clark's farmhouse, near the field of battle, lingering in great pain, and slowly dying from a number of ferocious bayonet wounds. He was attended by his aid, Major Armstrong, and the celebrated Dr. Benjamin Rush came especially from Philadelphia to give the dying hero the benefit of his skill and services. He had been treated with the greatest respect by the enemy, for Cornwallis was always quick to recognize and respect a gallant soldier. The kindly Quakers had spared neither time nor trouble to lighten his dying hours, and the women of the household nursed him with gentle and assiduous care. He passed away ten days after the battle, leaving to his descendants the untarnished name of a gallant soldier and gentleman, who never faltered in the pursuit of his high ideals of duty. Brief as had been his career as a general in the Revolution, his memory is still cherished by a grateful posterity as one of the first heroes of that mighty struggle for liberty.

Details of the British were already marching toward the field of action to engage in the melancholy work of burying the dead when Seymour, under Major Armstrong's guidance, went over the ground in a search for Talbot. He had no difficulty in finding the place where his friend had fallen. The field had not been disturbed by any one. A bloody frozen mass of ice and snow had shown where Mercer had fallen, and across the place where his feet had been lay the body of Talbot. In front of him lay the lieutenant with whom he had fought, the sword still buried in his breast, farther away were the two men that the general and he horsesmen who rode up to where he stood. Their leader, a bold, handsome young man of distinguished appearance, in the brilliant dress of a British general officer, reined in his steed close by him and addressed him.

"How now, sir? Weeping? Tears do not become a soldier!"

"Ah, sir," said Seymour, saluting and pointing down to Talbot's body at the same time, "not even when one mourns the death of a friend?"

"Your friend, sir?" replied the general officer courteously, uncovering and looking down at the bodies with interest, his practiced eye immediately taking in the details of the little conflict.

"He did not go to his death alone," he said meaningly. "Fore God, sir, here has been a pretty fight! Your name and rank, sir?"

"Lieutenant John Seymour of the American Continental navy, volunteer aid on his excellency General Washington's staff."

"And what do you here? Are you a prisoner?"

"No, sir; I came with Major Lewis to visit General Mercer and to look for my friend under cover of a flag of truce."

"Hail! How is General Mercer?"

"Frightfully wounded. He cannot live very long now."

"He was a gallant fellow, so I am told, sir, and fought the father of his majesty in the '45?"

"Yes," said Seymour simply. "This is where he fell."

The general looked curiously about him.

"And who was your dead friend?" he continued.

"Captain Hilary Talbot of Virginia, of General Washington's staff."

"What! Not Talbot of Fairview Hall on the Potomac?" said one of the officers.

"The same, sir."

"Gad, my lord, Madam Talbot's a red-hot Tory! She swears by the king. I've been entertained at the house, not when the young man was there, but while he was away—and a fine place it is. Well, here's a house divided truly!"

"Is it indeed so, Mr. Seymour?"

The young man nodded affirmatively.

"What were you proposing to do with the body?"

"Bury it near here, sir, in the cemetery on the hill by the college. We have no means of transporting it hence."

"Well, you shall do so, and we will bury him like a soldier. I remember the family now in England very well. Don't they call them the loyal Talbots? Yes, I thought so. He was a rebel and so far false to his creed, but a gentleman nevertheless, and a brave one too. Look at the fight he made here, gentlemen. He shall have an escort of the king's own troops, and Lord Cornwallis himself and his staff for his chief mourners; eh, Erskine?" said the gallant earl, turning to the officer who rode near him.

"How will that suit you, Mr. Seymour? You can tell that to his poor old mother, too, when you see her once again. Some of you bring up a company of troops and get a gun carriage—there's an abandoned one of Mawhood's over there—and we'll take him up properly. Have you a horse, sir? Ah, that's well. And bring a prayer book if you can find one. I doubt if there be any in my staff. I presume the man was a churchman, and he shall have prayers too. We have no coffin for him either. But, stay; here's my own cloak, a proper shroud for a soldier. Surely that will do nicely. And now let us go on, gentlemen."

In a short time the martial cortege reached the little Presbyterian cemetery. The young man, wrapped in the general's cloak, was soon laid away in the shallow grave which had hastily been made ready for him. Seymour, attended by the two other American officers, Armstrong and Lewis, after cutting off a lock of Talbot's dark hair for his mother, read the burial service out of the young soldier's own little prayer book, which he had found in the pocket of his coat. As the earth was put upon him Cornwallis and his officers stood about reverently uncovered while the sailor read with faltering lips the old familiar words which for twenty centuries have whispered of comfort to the heartbroken children of men and illumined the dark future by an eternal hope—nay, rather, fixed assurance—of life everlasting.

There was one tender-hearted woman there too, one of the sweet faced daughters of the kindly Quaker, Miss Clark. She had taken time to twine a hasty wreath from the fragrant ever verdant pine; when the little mound of earth was finished, softly she laid it down, breathing a prayer for the mother in far-off Virginia as she did so.

Then they all drew back the last three volleys and the drummers beat the last call. 'Twas the same simple ending which closes the career of all soldiers of whatever degree when they come to occupy those narrow quarters where earthly considerations of rank and station are forgot.

"Sir, I beg to thank you for this distinguished courtesy," said Seymour, with deep feeling, extending his hand to the knightly Briton.

"Do not mention it, sir, I beg of you," replied Cornwallis, shaking his hand warmly. "You will do the same for one of us, I am sure, should occasion ever demand a like service at your hands. I will see that your other men and officers are properly buried. Do you return now?"

"Immediately, my lord."

"Pray present my compliments to Mr.—nay, General—Washington," said the generous commander, "and congratulate him upon his brilliant campaign. Ay, and tell him we look forward eagerly to trying conclusions with him again. Goodby, sir. Come, gentlemen," he cried, raising his hat gracefully as he mounted his horse and rode away, followed by his staff.

HITS REAR OF FREIGHT

Picnic Train Dashes Into an Open
Switch at Glenwood, Ill., Near Chicago.

Gross Carelessness Responsible For Slaughter—Twenty-five Injured.

Chicago, July 14.—Twenty people were killed and about twenty-five injured last night in a collision on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad at Glenwood, twenty-three miles south of this city.

The collision occurred between a picnic train from this city which was returning from Mokena, Ill., and a freight train, into the rear end of which it dashed at a high rate of speed. The picnic train was on the right hand track coming north, and the freight was on the left track. A misplaced switch threw the picnic train over on the left track, and before the engineer could apply the brakes it ran at forty miles an hour into the rear of the freight. The engine, baggage car and first coach of the picnic train were demolished and all of the killed and injured were on the engine and in the two cars.

KATE SULLIVAN AVENGED

Law Takes the Lives of Her Slayers—
An Atrocious Crime.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—The crime for which Ben and Al Wade were electrocuted last night was the murder of Kate Sullivan, one of two aged spinners who lived alone on a dairy farm about five miles west of Toledo, on the night of April 14, 1900, and the motive was robbery. The women lived in a most economical manner, but were generally supposed to have considerable money. Kate Sullivan was sixty years of age, about six feet tall and very strong.

On the night of the murder she opened the door in response to a knock and was confronted by two men who wore red handkerchiefs tied over their faces, and slouch hats. One was tall, the other undersized. The taller knocked Kate Sullivan down, struck her with a club and both began kicking her and beating her about the head with willow clubs. The sister, Joanna, hearing the noise, ran out of an adjoining room and was at once attacked by the men, who beat her into insensibility.

The men gagged their victims and bound them hand and foot with strips torn from a table cloth, then ransacked the house, securing upstairs a little sack containing about $200. When the robbers departed they locked the door and left in the yard a bag and the clubs used and a cap which was thrown away, the murderers having taken in its place a bag belonging to a dead brother of the women. Later Kate Sullivan succeeded in working her wrists free, untied the bands on her legs and, despite her fearful wounds, she crawled to a neighbor's home a quarter of a mile distant and gave the alarm. The following morning she died just before dawn. Her sister, Joanna, who it was thought could not live two days, finally rallied from the fearful abuse and was restored both in mind and body. She was the chief witness in the trial of the Wades. No definite clue to the perpetrators of the tragedy was found until nearly two years later, when in the private office of an Upper Sandusky officer, a quarrel between Ben Wade and Ben Landis attracted attention to their possible knowledge of the case.

American Canned Beef.

Minneapolis, July 14.—Advices received at Northern Pacific headquarters state that the heaviest order of canned meat to cross the Pacific has been successfully delivered on the Pacific coast and loaded aboard the huge ship Shawmut for transportation from Puget sound to Yokohama. The shipment consists of a rush order for 1,000,000 pounds of canned beef for the subsistence department of the Japanese army. It was handled from Chicago by the Northern Pacific in special trains of forty refrigerator cars.

A St. Louis Outrage.

St. Louis, July 14.—Meat from cattle alleged to have been affected with Texas fever and blood poisoning was captured yesterday by Chief Meat Inspector Stringer as it was being delivered to the poorhouse, insane asylum, female hospital, city hospital and emergency hospital. Inspector Stringer stopped the delivery and took samples of the meat, which he submitted to Health Commissioner Simon.

Nordica's Divorce Affirmed.

Nominee for President in Clutches of Red-Eyed Law.

He paid $50 and was given time to pay the balance.

Postal Receipts for Cities.

Washington, July 14.—The gross postal receipts for the fifty largest postoffices in the United States for last month as compared with June, 1903, were $5,467,498, an increase of more than 6 per cent. The highest increase was 21 per cent at Peoria, Ill. Decreases were reported by Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Buffalo, Rochester, Columbus, Worcester and St. Joseph. New York receipts increased almost 6 per cent. Chicago increased over 8 per cent. The receipts at St. Louis, where the exposition has swelled the postal business, increased 17 per cent.

A Refuge for Bribers.

Paris, July 14.—The adjournment of parliament yesterday without the passage of the bill providing for a revision of the extradition law indefinitely postpones the negotiations of Washington for the inclusion of bribery among extraditable offenses. The foreign office had previously advised the American embassy that the government was unable to act until parliament passed the bill. The government's income tax bill also goes over Premier Combes, stating that parliament will be assembled in the middle of October for the purpose of taking up this measure.

Attempted Assault.

Columbus, Ohio, July 14.—Twelve-year-old Rose Stoker was the victim of an attempted assault by a young white man on the outskirts of the city yesterday. The girl had taken dinner to her father, who is employed at the sewage plant, and was returning home along a railroad track when attacked. The girl fought and screamed until her assailant became frightened and fled. A large crowd quickly gathered and went in pursuit and later the police joined in the chase, but the man escaped. The police believe, however, they know the man and expect to capture him. The girl suffered numerous bruises in the struggle, but her condition is not serious.

Illinois Doctor Extradited.

New York, July 14.—Dr. P. R. Langdon, wanted at Kankakee, Ill., on a charge of murder, arrived here yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic, in the custody of Sheriff H. A. Cryer and Deputy M. A. Baker of Kankakee. The prisoner was accompanied by his wife. On the 18th of last April, a Mrs. Carr of Kankakee died as a result of an operation which it is alleged she accused Dr. Langdon of performing. Before the physician could be arrested he disappeared. He was traced to Chicago and from there to New York, where he sailed for Europe. He was arrested as he stepped ashore at Liverpool.

Bonesteel Booming.

Bonesteel, S. D., July 14.—Nearly 15,000 persons have visited Bonesteel since the opening of the registers for entry on the Rosebud Indian reservation last week. The greater part of these people have registered and the crowds continue to come in daily. The authorities have been remarkably successful in preserving quiet and preventing disorder. The town council has forced undesirable persons to leave whenever they put in their appearance. The government land office has been able to accommodate the crowds without inconvenience and few have been forced to stand in line any great length of time.

Bryan Not to Speak.

Chicago, July 14.—Roger C. Sullivan, the new member of the Democratic national committee from St. Louis, declares that it was not considered desirable by members of the national committee that William Jennings Bryan take the stump for the national ticket. Some days ago Mayor Harrison invited Mr. Bryan to speak at a ratification meeting which is to be held in this city in a few days.

Jewell of Brooklyn was so badly injured that he died soon after the result of a collision between a big touring automobile and a train on the Long Island railroad at Mercent road crossing last night.

The automobile with its occupants was apparently racing with the train and was ahead as it approached the crossing. The flagman at the crossing waved his flag and his lantern as a warning and the engineer of the train, which was going at full speed, reversed the engine and blew his whistle, but the automobile shot on into the turn and upon the track. ## STATE COMMITTEE MEETING

The Republicans in Session—Campaign to Open in September.

Indianapolis, July 14.—A meeting of the Republican state committee was held this afternoon at headquarters in the Hotel English. Most of the members were present. Chairman Goodrich was as mysterious as usual as to the purpose of the meeting, but several of the members said they had been called together to talk over the plan of campaign. Chairman Goodrich and Secretary Sims have the organization well under way, but they wanted to learn the exact situation in the various localities so the men who are in position to tell them were called in. The Republican leaders seem to feel that they have an excellent chance of carrying the state by a large majority as was rolled up in the campaign of 1900. A few even are hopeful that the victory of two years ago can be duplicated when the head of the ticket had a majority of over 30,000. Most of them, however, will be elated with a 25,000 majority victory, as they realize that the Democrats are going to put up a much harder fight this year than they were capable of in the last two national campaigns. One of the objects of the meeting today, it is said, was to fix the campaign assessment of the various candidates. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that the speaking campaign will be formally opened about the middle of September.

Complete returns have not been received by either of the state committees from the six months poll. In presidential years the state chairmen always insist on this poll being taken in every county although many of the party workers don't see the use of it. The poll itself is never very accurate, but in a way it is a rough draft of what each party has in stock in the way of votes. It also furnishes an idea of where the most organizing must be done. In spite of their indifference the Republicans have been somewhat worried over the situation in some of the gas belt counties because many workmen have moved away since the failure of gas. Prior to the boom several years ago bringing in thousands of new people a number of the gas belt counties were Democratic. Because the ranks of the workmen have lately been depleted there the Democrats have again been figuring on recapturing some of the counties. An official of the Republican organization said today that the six months poll shows the party to be in good shape in the gas belt, but it seems very probable that that section will be a fierce battleground of the ensuing campaign.

Appropos of the coming meeting of the national committee in New York the question has arisen as to whether or not Temporary Chairman Taggart should issue the call. The resolution adopted by the convention just before adjournment provided that ex-Chairman Jones should issue it, but in the meeting of the committee at St. Louis Sunday, when Taggart was made temporary chairman, the right of the convention to instruct the committee was discussed and the question was unsettled. Taggart does not want to do anything to hurt his chances, but the question now is whether or not he ought to wait on Jones or go ahead and exercise his authority. One of his close friends said today that he intends to advise Taggart to let Jones issue his call and to then issue a brief request himself as temporary chairman. It is probable that several of Taggart's Indiana friends will go to New York for the meeting.

Whether or not the platform adopted at the recent national convention is satisfactory to the masses of the party, it will be reaffirmed in full at the Democratic state convention here Aug. 3. Alonzo Greene Smith, who will be chairman, Kern and several other party leaders, said today that there is no doubt but that the platform will be ratified. Furthermore, they expressed confidence that the action will meet with the approval of the party. The Democratic leaders have not determined as yet what state issues will be made paramount.

LINCOLN AND ROOSEVELT.

It is a far cry from the administration of Abraham Lincoln to the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, but Secretary Hay, who was the private secretary to Lincoln, is Secretary of State in the Cabinet of Roosevelt. Either position would furnish exceptional opportunities for knowledge of the characteristics of the superior officer. When coupled with the strong appreciative qualities of Secretary Hay, his opinion of Lincoln and of Roosevelt must command respect.

In his address before the pioneers of the republican party Secretary Hay said that "in times of doubt the thought oftenest in the mind of President Roosevelt is 'what, in such a case, would Lincoln have done?'" President Roosevelt has almost the homeliness as he has the directness of purpose of Abraham Lincoln, and he has equal honesty of purpose even though he does not possess the higher qualities of the one American fully entitled to rank with George Washington. Nature breaks the molds of the Washingtons and the Lincolns, raising up their counterparts only when occasions demand. To the soundness of that proposition none would accede so quickly and so heartily as would Theodore Roosevelt.

If the actions of Abraham Lincoln are models to him he could have none higher. His own good sense and patriotic impulses will do the rest. Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

BRYAN says he proposes to keep up the fight against the Wall Street crowd that forced the nomination of Parker.

IT IS Wall Street Parker and Coal Baron Davis. What do the democrats who have been taught that their party stands for the plain people think about it?

A CLIQUE of Wall Street millionaires fell out with Roosevelt when he settled the anthracite coal strike; a certain other clique of those speculators got mad at the President when he instituted the anti-trust law. They put Parker forward as their candidate, and the St. Louis convention fell in with the Wall Street crowd. Bryan has said over and over again that Parker could not be elected if nominated, and all because of the men who are behind his candidacy. Bryan knows the temper of the American people. He has been around some of the past eight years.

FOUR years ago at the democratic national convention when there was talk of a change of position on the money question Bryan told them in advance that he would not presume to dictate the platform, but that if the party did face on the money question they could look for another candidate, for under no circumstances would he be their candidate. Parker waits till after the platform is made and he is nominated, and when it is next to impossible for him before he has one word to say. We have always opposed Bryan because we believed he was wrong on the money, tariff and other questions, but when it comes to courage and straight forwardness Parker is not in the same class with Bryan.

CALLED TO BLUFFTON.

Rev. W. C. Martin Considering Change of Pastorate.

After declining an invitation some weeks ago to visit the First Baptist church at Bluffton with a view to the pastorate, Rev. W. C. Martin spent last Sunday with the church. This morning he received a telegram stating that at the business meeting last night he had been given a unanimous call to the pastorate, and he is now considering his reply. The Bluffton Baptist church is one of the best county seat churches in the state. Its church building is modern in every respect and is probably the second in the state in its convenient arrangement and beautiful finish. It has a fine parsonage on one of the best streets in the city. The church is in good shape and all conditions make it one of the most desirable pastorate in the state.

Rev. Martin began his pastorate here two years ago the first of last March. Since that time the church membership has been increased and all lines of church activity have been maintained. The church is now arranging for thorough repairs of the church property. Mr. Martin has easily taken front rank among the public speakers of our city, his sermons have been models of style, and his platform lectures, which he has delivered in many places, have created a demand for his addresses in various parts of the state. The call comes to him without any solicitation on his part, and his decision will be announced in a few days.

Don't Miss It.

This will be "stallion night" at Prof. Beery's arena on west Second street. There will be plenty of excitement and a big crowd is expected.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

Engineer J. B. Murphy went to Washington this morning.

Railroad men at Washington are planning for a railroaders picnic at Olney, Ill., August 5.

C. C. Mordough, of Cincinnati, traveling passenger agent for the C. M. & St. P., was here this morning.

State Auditor Investigating.

The state auditor, at the request of numerous policy holders is making an investigation of the business methods of the Union Life Insurance Company, of Indianapolis. Some time ago negotiations were entered into by the officers of the Union Life with the Federal Insurance Company, of Chicago, looking to the consolidation of the two companies. The transfer will be held in abeyance until the present investigation is completed.

The Union Life has numerous policy holders over the state, several being in this city.

Wanted a Judge.

Judge Buskirk telegraphed from Paoli today to Hon. O. H. Montgomery asking him to report there to sit as special judge in a murder trial and if he could not come to send Jos. H. Shea. ## MAY TEACH FARMING.

Supt. Cotton Suggests an Agricultural Course for Schools.

Along with their spelling, arithmetic, geography and other branches of study children in the district schools of Indiana may next year receive instruction in the handling of hoes and plows and barrows, the harvesting of crops and the planting of seeds and occasionally listen to learned discussions on the elements of the soil. F. A. Cotton, superintendent of public instruction, yesterday gave out the information that he was about to "suggest" that an elementary course in agriculture be added to the regular curriculum of common schools located in farming districts of the state.

"Now, this course in agriculture which I have outlined, will be purely optional with the pupils and the teachers," said Mr. Cotton. "The course, as now decided upon, will consist of instruction in the examination of seeds of all kinds, the planting of grains and plants and a study of their development, instruction on the elements of the soil and such work along other lines of agriculture as may be practically carried on at the school house."

The matter of teaching agriculture in the public schools was advocated by the late Governor Mount, who was himself a successful farmer.

GREAT STALLION NIGHT

PROFESSOR J. BEERY,

The King of Horse Tamers at his training Arena, under large tent on

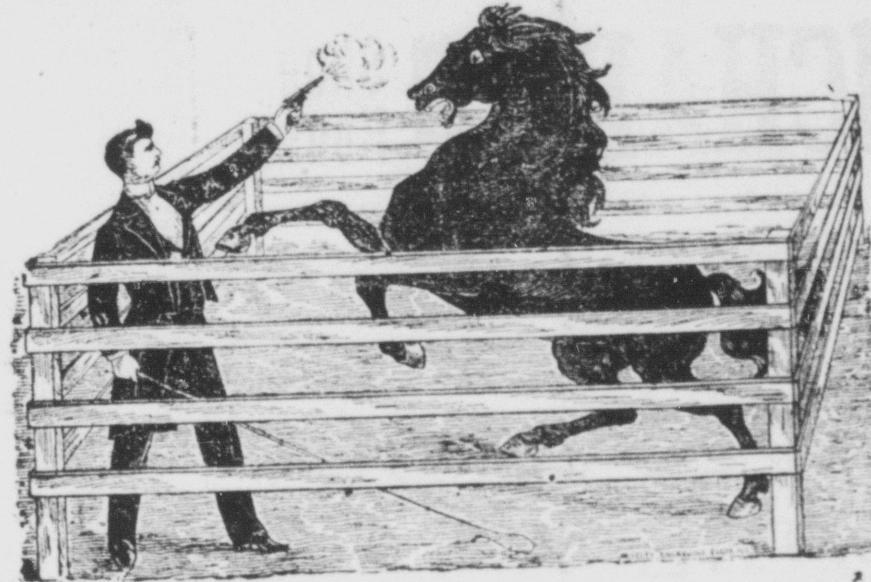

WEST SECOND ST.
SEYMOUR, INDIANA.

Thursday Night, July 14th 1904.

One of the interesting subjects to be handled will be a powerful, fiery stormy, untamed Stallion that has never yet been harnessed. It will be necessary for Prof. Beery and his men personally to bring this unmanageable beast to the tent, that no serious trouble may occur before he has been subdued.

This Monster Beast Weighs a Ton

To accomplish the probably impossible task of harnessing and hitching up this untamed beast, the horse tamer will have a pen constructed in the arena, especially for the occasion. In this pen the pawing, roaring, restless stallion will be turned loose. Prof. Beery will enter it alone with nothing but a light whip and a revolver loaded with blank cartridges, which, if his life becomes endangered he will fire right into the face of the enraged brute. This is the climax of probably the most

DARING AND THRILLING PERFORMANCE.

Ever to be seen in Seymour. It is worth coming fifty miles to witness and no citizen within reach of Seymour should fail to be present. If the tamer succeeds in subduing the brute by his gunpowder method he will then attempt to harness and drive him, which feat in itself will be little less exciting, and fully worth the admission fee. Besides this stallion on this special night there will be handled kickers, halter pullers, runaways etc, making the exhibition so full of fire, fun and frolic that will be really

A DOUBLE PERFORMANCE. MUSIC BY BAND

He said he was sorry they had such a short time in which to arrange the stock for the sale. Many lines had not been gone through and consequently could not be placed on sale, and as fast as the balance of the stock could be marked down it will be placed on sale and greater bargains will be given from day to day while the sale lasts.

Contemplated Picnic.

The Seymour Modern Woodmen have under advisement now the matter of giving an all day picnic in Seymour some day in September. They have elaborate plans in mind for bringing in a large crowd that day and if they get sufficient encouragement from the people to insure cooperation they have no doubt about achieving success in a large measure. The Woodmen are hustlers and Seymour people know that when they take hold of a proposition they mean business.

"Parker's nomination mortgages the democratic party to Wall Street. Personally I did not assist the money sharks to obtain this mortgage, and I shall not assist them in their attempt to foreclose it."

ABSENT FROM HOME

Was President Roosevelt When Miners' Committee Called.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 14.—Concerning the visit to Oyster Bay of the committee representing the Central Labor Union of Lackawanna and Luzerne counties, Pennsylvania, Secretary Loeb has received the following telegram from John E. Barrett, editor of The Truth of Scranton, Pa.: "Did President Roosevelt personally refuse to see a committee of miners yesterday, as reported in this morning papers?"

In response to this inquiry Secretary Loeb sent to Editor Barrett the following telegram:

"Many thanks for your telegram. The committee came here and insisted on seeing the president to present a petition at a time when I could not arrange it for them. The president did not know they were here. If they had sent word that they desired to see the president I should have been glad to arrange for them at some convenient time. As it was, I offered to bring the petition to the personal attention of the president. The statement that the president had any knowledge of the committee's presence in Oyster Bay is not true."

It was stated in the Associated Press dispatch concerning the visit of the committee that the president did not personally refuse to receive them. When the committee called on Secretary Loeb at the executive office the president was temporarily absent from Sagamore Hill. He was not even within telephone communication of the committee were so informed.

Caredof Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Barge, of Martinville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years, and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy is for sale by C. W. Milhous.

May Settle Big Strike.

Chicago, July 14.—Arbitration of the grievances which precipitated the general strike in the meat packing houses in various parts of the country appears to be in sight and a conference between employers and strikers is being held today. The initial step toward a settlement of the controversy by mediation was taken late last evening by the state board of arbitration. When the members of the board reached Chicago they at once went into conference with Michael J. Donnelly, the leader of the strike, and listened to the story of his side of the trouble. The members of the board then interviewed the representatives of the packers and their side of the difficulty was heard. As a result of these two conferences Mr. Donnelly sent a communication to the packers in which it was said that the unions were willing to accept a settlement through a board of arbitration. No reply is expected from the employers before tomorrow, but it is confidently expected that their reply will be conciliatory because they offered to arbitrate the matters in dispute before the strike was called.

Slocum Investigation Ends.

New York, July 14.—The total dead in the destruction of the excursion steamer General Slocum on June 15, is given as 958 in the final report presented to Police Commissioner McAdoo by the inspectors in charge of the investigation by the police department. Only 897 of the dead were identified; 62 were reported missing and 61 unidentified, while 130 were injured and only 235 out of the nearly 1,400 on the steamer escaped uninjured. Assuming that the unidentified dead are among the missing, all but one person has been accounted for.

PROBING MYSTERY

Efforts to Get at Bottom of Schafer Murder Case.

GRAND JURY AT WORK

Every Hint That May Give Clue to Be Faithfully Followed Up.

Judge Palmer and Others Before the Lawrence County Grand Jury at Bedford.

Bedford, Ind., July 14.—The Lawrence county grand jury is still considering the evidence in the Schafer murder case. McDonald's attorney, Robert N. Palmer, is now before the grand jury, with new evidence. Witnesses are still being summoned in the case. Mary Inman, a domestic employed by Dr. J. H. Duncan, was before the grand jury today for two hours, and it is thought that her testimony had a great bearing on the matter.

Judge Wilson is at home in Bloomington, owing to illness, and will remain there until called for by the grand jury. All kinds of rumors are current in Bedford concerning the Schafer case, and sensational developments are promised soon.

A PROBABLE MOTIVE

Robbery Evidently Actuated Atrocious Greensboro Murder.

Greensboro, Ind., July 14.—Detective E. C. Curry of Cincinnati has arrived here and has taken entire charge of the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Mollie Starbuck and her little baby on Saturday night. He has the active assistance of Sheriff Christopher and Marshal Barr and Prosecutor Ed Jackson. The detective has been looking over the scene of the death of the woman and child and is again at Greensboro.

Much evidence bearing out the theory that robbery was the motive was unearthed. The officers believe that Haley Gipe, now in jail at New Castle charged with having been implicated in the murder, knows much about it. Gipe was before a court of inquiry and was searchingly questioned by Detective Curry. At times Gipe seemed to be rattled. At others his answers were slowly and deliberately made and he seemed to be studying them deeply before he made them. Curry's questions came like the shots from a rapid-fire gun and at times Gipe's answers were given as quickly as the questions were asked.

From the investigation the detective secured information that he said he thought would warrant the officers in making another arrest.

At Gipe's house the officers found a wet and mud-stained pair of overalls. At the well in which the bodies were found a button with a piece of cloth attached was picked up. This piece of cloth fits the rent in the overalls and the button is of the same make as the others on the garment.

At the sheep pens about 150 feet from the well, was found an empty whisky bottle. It is one of a variety made at Shirley, Ind. The task of tracing that bottle began yesterday afternoon. It probably came from Shirley. It had been filled with whisky and alcohol mixed. Starbuck, the officers say, never had any such bottle about his house.

A note for $100 which had been made out by Will Starbuck was found in the garden torn to pieces. On the night preceding the murder the note was in a dresser drawer in the room in front of the one it is supposed that Mrs. Starbuck was assaulted. This seems to positively establish the motive for the crime. Local interest is still at a high pitch.

Found Dead.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., July 14.—A post mortem conducted by Dr. S. H. Collins on the body of Jacob Montooth, laborer, found unconscious in the bulkhead of a coal barge Monday evening, and who died from his injuries later, indicates that the victim met with foul play. There were no abrasions on Montooth's body, as would have resulted from a fall. The authorities will investigate.

Carrie Nation's Protest.

Madison, Ind., July 14.—Two thousand people were at Beech Grove park yesterday, where Carrie Nation was the orator-in-chief. At the close she snatched from the wall an advertisement by a brewing company of Indianapolis, representing a woman holding a glass of beer, which she denounced as a slander to her sex.

Orderly Saloon Closed.

Muncie, Ind., July 14.—The W. C. T. U. has succeeded in driving out of business Joe Bennett, the only saloon keeper in the city who conducted a saloon with its sole entrance on an alley. It is said Bennett's saloon was orderly, and that he always observed the legal hours of closing.

Woman Run Down.

Muncie, Ind., July 14.—Mrs. John Ellis, forty-five years old, of Illinois, visiting at Shideler, this county, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by a Lake Erie & Western passenger train at that place. She was walking on the track with a companion, and the latter barely escaped.

MAKING HIM LOOK PLEASANT.

It is an easy thing when we quote our prices on building lumber. A pleasant surprise always awaits the contractor and builder when he visits our yard after getting prices elsewhere and seeing the superior quality of high grade lumber, hard wood trim, flooring, laths, shingles and that we are selling at bed-rock prices. Our lumber is of high quality, well seasoned and beyond competition, price considered.
